Tohoku Earthquake & Tsunami
Sendai, Miyagi Prefecture, Japan
10th Anniversary - March 11, 2021
Elongated Copper Cent & Japan 10-Yen Bronze Set

On March 11, 2011, Japan experienced the strongest earthquake in its recorded history. The magnitude 9.0 earthquake struck below the North Pacific Ocean, 81 miles east of Sendai, the largest city in the Tohoku region, a northern part of the island of Honshu.

The Tohoku earthquake caused a tsunami — Japanese for "harbor wave" — a series of powerful waves caused by the displacement of a large body of water. Most tsunamis, like the one that formed off Tohoku, are triggered by underwater tectonic activity, such as earthquakes and volcanic eruptions. The Tohoku tsunami produced waves up to 132 feet high. More than 450,000 people became homeless as a result of the tsunami. More than 15,500 people died.

The tsunami also severely crippled the infrastructure of the country. In addition to the thousands of destroyed homes, businesses, roads, and railways, the tsunami caused the meltdown of three nuclear reactors at the Fukushima Daiichi Nuclear Power Plant. The Fukushima nuclear disaster released toxic, radioactive materials into the environment and forced thousands of people to evacuate their homes and businesses.

115th Anniversary of the FIRST FILIPINO IMMIGRANTS to Hawaii 1906 – 2021

Regular 6 - Coin Set

It was in December 20, 1906 that the ship Doric docked at Honolulu, carrying fifteen Filipinos (one of whom brought along his fighting cock) along with a handful of Chinese, Japanese and Sikhs. Eleven of the Filipinos were single, four were married. The oldest was fifty-six and the youngest was fourteen. All of them originated from the coastal area of Candon in Ilocos Sur. Little did these men know that they were making history by being the first group of Filipinos to settle in Hawaii, part of what became the first wave of Filipino migration to the United States of America. All were eventually sent to live in the main Japanese camp at the Olaa Plantation in Big Island, Hawaii, located five miles south of Hilo.

Today, the United States of America hosts more than 2.7 million Filipinos, nearly 276,000 of whom reside in Hawaii. At present, Filipinos in Hawaii account for 24% of Hawaii's population. They have made permanent mark in the state's political, economic and cultural life. Whereas, Filipinos first came to Hawaii as plantation workers and indentured laborers, Filipinos in Hawaii today are successful professionals, and prominent citizens in business, government, politics, academe and the arts.

HISTORIC HAWAII ELONGATED PENNIES Transportation: Series V

Hawaii's Transportation Pioneers

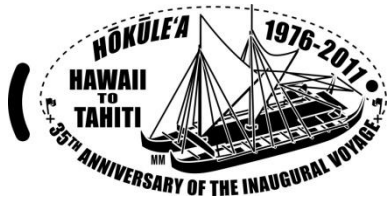

Transportation in historic Hawaii was mostly by water and on foot due to the absence of roadways. Outrigger canoes were ideal since their hulls could clear the coral reefs. Some individuals played important pioneer roles in Hawaii's Transportation history.

Hokule'a Hawaii to Tahiti Voyage 1976 - 2021
45th Anniversary – May 1, 2021
Elongated Copper Cent & Hawaii State Quarter Set

May 1, 2021 is the 45th Anniversary of departure for Hōkūle'a's maiden voyage to Tahiti from Honolulu Bay, Maui. That day in 1976 was the first time in 600 years that a Polynesian voyaging canoe sailed deep sea. It would take them 34 days to reach Tahiti.

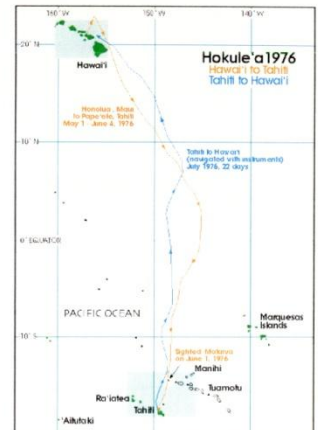

Led by Captain Elia David Kū'ulohi "Kewiki" Kapāhulehewa and Navigator Pius "Mau" Piailug, a Tapaese master navigator, Hōkūle'a departed Honolulu Bay, Maui, Hawaii for Papeete, Tahiti, as part of the celebration of the United States Bicentennial. Mau navigated from Hawaii to Tahiti without instruments. The return leg employed western instruments (compass, nautical charts, sextant, chronometer, dividers, parallel rulers, pencil, nautical almanac).

On board the inaugural voyage was Hōkū, a golden hair Hawaiian pig dog backbred by Jack L. Throp of the Honolulu Zoo. Razor-backed pigs and Polynesian chickens were also bred at the zoo for the voyage but the director would not part with them at the last minute. Instead, the voyage hurriedly brought a white domesticated pig from Kōke'e, Kauai named Maxwell, and a cock and hen. The purpose of the animals was to study how to feed and care for these animals which were brought by the Polynesians during their voyages.

These elongated coins were rolled using the original 35th Anniversary dies with a "dot" added after the dates to indicate "re-rolled" coins for the 45th Anniversary - 2021.

Go For Broke, Series II 4-coin Elongated Cent Set rolled on a Copper Cent, 1943 Steel Cent and 1944 and 1945 Wartime Copper Cents

The phrase "go for broke" originated in the Hawaiian Pidgin English. It is slang used in the game craps, which is a dice game where a player makes wagers on the outcome of the roll of a dice. The phrase was used when the player would wager everything on a single roll of dice, thus, if the player lost, he would be broke, or bankrupt. If you "go for broke", you take the most extreme or risky of the possible courses of action in order to try and achieve success.

The 442nd RCT was a segregated World War II unit made up entirely of Americans of Japanese ancestry, which was a big deal since they were barred from military service at the start of the conflict due to fears stemming from the Pearl Harbor attack. Japanese Americans, known as Nisei, couldn't enlist in the armed forces, and hundreds of thousands of them were relocated into internment camps out of distrust. But many Nisei still wanted to serve America. They were eventually able to do so through the 100th Infantry Battalion, the 1390th Engineer Construction Battalion, the Military Intelligence Service, and the 442nd RCT — which became the most decorated military unit of its size and length of service. The 442nd RCT was activated Feb. 1, 1943, and was composed of Nisei men who had volunteered from Hawaii and internment camps on the mainland. They trained at Camp Shelby, Mississippi, before deploying to Italy in June 1944, where they joined in combat with the 100th Infantry Battalion — the first Nisei Army unit to be activated in the war.

This elongated copper cent set consists of the Go For Broke "ALPHA" design rolled on 4 different U.S. Cents: Copper Cent, 1943 Steel Cent with Zinc coating, and 1944 and 1945 Wartime metal cents.
Only 100 numbered sets were produced.

4-COIN ELONGATED SET # _____ OF 100 SETS

WARTIME U.S. CENT COMPOSITION

The composition of the U.S. Cent changed during WWII to conserving certain metals for the war effort.
1943 STEEL CENT, 99% STEEL WITH ZINC PLATING. This composition was used because copper was needed to make ammunition for the war effort. (1909-1942 cents were 95% Copper, 5% zinc and tin.)
1944 and 1945 SHELL CASE CENTS, 95% COPPER, 5% ZINC, NO TIN. Made from recycled ammunition shells, most likely recycled and reused from wartime training.

The 80th Anniversary of the Attack on
Pearl Harbor
December 7, 1941 – 2021
8-Coin Elongated Set

The attack on Pearl Harbor was a surprise military strike conducted by the Imperial Japanese Navy against the United States naval base at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii on the morning of Sunday, December 7, 1941. The next day, the United States entered WWII by declaring war on Japan. President Franklin D. Roosevelt proclaimed December 7th a date which will live in infamy. Throughout the war and after, the cry of "Remember Pearl Harbor" became an inspiration to many Americans. As WWII began for the United States at Pearl Harbor, it ended with Japan signing the articles of surrender on the deck of the USS Missouri in Tokyo Bay on September 2, 1945.
